

AOC Convenes Global Leaders to Explore the Future of EW at AOC 2025

National Harbor, MD – The Association of Old Crows \(AOC\), the premier organization for electromagnetic warfare and spectrum operations professionals, today announced details for the 2025 AOC International Symposium & Convention, which brings together nearly 2,500 professionals from 40+ countries spanning industry, military, academic, and government sectors.

Addressing Critical Challenges in Modern Warfare

With electromagnetic warfare playing an increasingly decisive role in contemporary conflicts, AOC 2025 brings together military leaders, industry innovators, and technical experts to address the most pressing challenges facing electromagnetic spectrum operations today.

Charting a Path to 2035: Navigating the Future of Electromagnetic Spectrum Operations serves as this year's theme, addressing the rapidly evolving EW landscape shaped by global political, strategic, economic, and technological shifts. As geopolitics redefine national priorities, the symposium will examine the changing roadmap to EMS superiority – driven by international investments, shifting focus areas, and cutting-edge advancements from industry and the S&T community.
